Object of Game
You, as Cuthbert, have been sent on a looting mission in outer space, but before leaving each planet you visit, you must use your remote shuttle to collect the fuel pods (the yellow canisters on the different levels). To do this, you must take your shuttle and land on top of the canisters, one at a time and return them to the safety of the mother ship. At the same time, you must avoid or shoot at the Intergalactic Police Force who are pretty determined to stop you stealing their possessions.

After collecting all the fuel pods, you will be allowed one more warrior — to go on a looting mission. Naturally, the Moronians are not very happy about this situation and will keep coming in ever increasing numbers in an effort to protect their wealth — stay as long as you dare. To collect the treasures, which fall from the top of the screen, you must either catch them in your craft before they reach the bottom of the screen where they will burn up. Once you return to the mothership, preparation for departure is automatic, the bands will close and it will take off — if you are lucky!
